

St. Thomas Church: established July 1, 1285 by King Vaclav II

Today's Prayer

How great a good was conferred on humankind by the handing over of Christ! God had in his thoughts our salvation by which we are redeemed; Judas had in his thoughts the price for which he sold the Lord.

THE FOURTH LENTEN SUNDAY-A, in Laetare

In contrast to the other three evangelists, John, the author of the fourth gospel, presents Jesus' teachings in a rather novel manner. Instead of an expected "narrative style" he theologially focuses on eight specific miracles or signs to strengthen his community now troubled with internal dissension and external political pressures. The evangelist at once identifies Christ's mission through potent signs and extensive teaching passages. Today's gospel of the blind man's healing is a case in point. The act of healing- an amalgam of traditional "folk medicine" and Jesus' word-passes us by quickly with the hostile opposition of religious leaders. Bitter recriminations leveled progressively at the healed man and his parents end with invectives directed at Jesus himself. The cause was simple. Using the Sabbath as an occasion for this healing Jesus patently "broke the Law" by performing two of some 39 actions forbidden on a holy day: first, he mixed mud and second, he applied said mud as a salve. But there is something more implied than a sabbatarian infraction. By the time this gospel was written (ca. AD 90), Jewish Christians now no longer welcomed in and often forcibly expelled from synagogues, had to explain, defend and demonstrate their faith in Jesus of Nazareth. Who was he and what were his credentials "proving" his messianic origin and mission. The narrative of the healed blind man reflecting back some 50 years into the public ministry of Jesus was used as a faith-sign for those beleaguered Christians in their struggle with an increasingly exclusive Synagogue. Since only God heals, it was Jesus by divine authority who set aside the sanctity of the Sabbath for this merciful action. In so doing, the Christians would see him as divinely commissioned. But a paradox remains. The man cured certainly came to faith in Jesus while the religious authorities- though they claimed to see- remained spiritually blind. In our lives we, too, can become so inured to an obtuse spirit or religious blindness that we may feel not only self-justified but even hostile to the presence of God's healing gifts when offered. Let us keep open the eyes of faith.

FOURTH SUNDAY OF LENT

CLEARING THE WORRY FROM MY MIND

Jn 9:1-41; Jn 3:14-21; Lk 15:1-3, 11-32 I cannot be afraid to be bold or worry about what others think of me. The man born blind didn't worry about the outcome of his case; he stood up to the Jewish leaders and lectured them. Pray this week to have that attitude and to trust God no matter what.

MONDAY: TAKING JESUS AT HIS WORD

Is 65:17-21; Jn 4:43-54 The royal official who asked Jesus to heal his son lived a day's journey away. He headed home, believing, but he must have worried. Can I relate? Have I ever trusted God but had to wait to see the outcome?

TUESDAY: DO I WANT TO BE MADE WELL?

Ez 47:1-9, 12; Jn 5:1-16 Jesus could ask me the same question. Do I really want to trust God in everything? What would life be like if I did not worry?

WEDNESDAY: THE SON ACTS NOT ON HIS OWN

Is 49:8-15; Jn 5:17-30 If Jesus could do "nothing on his own," surely I am even more dependent on God's grace to overcome my problems. If worry (or anything else) is cluttering my life, I ask for God's help. I, too, can do nothing on my own.

THURSDAY: ACCEPTING GLORY FROM OTHERS

Ex 32:7-14; Jn 5:31-47 Jesus accuses the Jewish leaders of caring more for one another's approval than for God's. Is that a problem in my life? I ask Jesus to help me seek God first.

FRIDAY: THE GOSSIPS OF JERUSALEM

Wis 2:1a, 12-22; Jn 7:1-2, 10, 25-30 The pilgrims in Jerusalem were having a great time gossiping about Jesus. Do I worry about what others are saying about me behind my back and want to "set the record straight"? I discuss this with Jesus, who experienced the same problem.

SATURDAY: COMMITTING MY CAUSE TO GOD

Jer 11:18-20; Jn 7:40-53 Jeremiah was thrown into a cistern, and Jesus was made fun of for doing God's work. Doing and saying what is right often lead to persecution and ridicule. Today, I ask God to help me be strong and bold. If I am persecuted, I am in good company.

Special medical service for expats in St. Francis Hospital, Prague

Since the beginning of this year, St. Francis Hospital, in the city centre of Prague, has been operating a new special medical service for foreign expats and patients from abroad. The hospital is faced daily with a high demand of tourists who, due to holidays, move to the city center of Prague where the hospital is located. The hospital also provides extra services for foreigners and expats who travel to Prague to work and stay in the Czech Republic. These foreigners and expats, from time to time, need specialized medical care. Doctor Tomáš Šebek, MD, who regularly attends international health projects, leads a new inhouse consultation service and has a rich experience of this area. Sister Veritas of the Congregation of St. Charles Borromeo provides counseling along with him as an experienced clinical psychologist and former member of a team for former president Václav Havel. The project is supported by the district of Prague 1, the founder of St. Francis Hospital.
